

Accrediting Archives: Lessons for Information Professionals

Taking charge

The decision to apply for Archive Accreditation was first and foremost the action of staff working with collections, not of senior management

Time well spent

Archives in Context

- Archivists: Librarians in vellum clothing?
- Accreditation - what?

Interlocking services

One third of archive services hold collections accredited by both the archive and museum award schemes.

Tackling cuts

'[accreditation has] raised our profile both internally and externally, gained accolades from our Board and has enabled us to get funding to get an archive cataloguing package.'
